NO AFFECTION FOR SCHETTLER

Plural Wife Bitter in Her Testimony.

Has Not Lived With the Ex-Banker for Twenty Years.

He Only Contributed $15 Per Month to Support Herself and Four Children.

That Agatha Peters Schettler has no leve or affection for B. H. Schettler was evident in nearly every answer given by her yesterday afternoon to questions put by Attorney Stewart in the bankruptcy now being conducted in Referce Baldwin's court. At times the weman was almost bitter in her tones and interjected a number of remarks that were not called for by the questions arked, but showed how wrongfully she and her children had been neglected by the man who, as husband and father, would be expected to provide for them.

Betrayed Much Bitterness.

Mrs. Schettler is rather a plain-looking Mrs. Schettier is rather a plain-looking woman, but scrupulously neat. Though young looking to be the mother of four grown children, the face plainly bears the marks of suffering and betrays the bitterness which the tongue expresses. Her testimony showed that for twenty years she had not lived with Schettler; that during all the years of her married life he had only averaged $15 a month toward the support of herself and four children, and that during the past ten years she had maintained herself by her own efforts, with the assistance of her children.

Was Once Schettler's Wife.

"Are you the wife of B. H. Schettler" asked Attorney Stewart, after Mrs. Schettler had been sworn and given her full name

"I was once," replied Mrs. Schettler.
"Wers you ever divorced?"
"No. I was never supposed to be legally married, and so I have no divorce."
"When were you married?" continued Mr. Stewart.
"August 8, 1878." And then, continuing in answer to questions asked, Mrs. Schettler told her story in practically the following language.

Mrs. Schettler's Story.

Mrs. Schettler's Story.

Mrs. Schettler's Story.

"I have four children, and B. H. Schettler is their lather. He never entirely supported myself or my children. He supported at it, so to speak, giving me a home at 205 Fourth street and $15 a month. My house is small, the lot being 5x10 rods. He gave me the deed to the house after he was hurt in Zion's Savings bank—I think it was in 1884."

"Did you ever have the deed recorded?" asked Mr. Stewart.

"Yes, about a year ago. I think it was last July," replied Mrs. Schettler.

"Why did you not have it recorded before?" asked the attorney.

Why Deed Was Recorded.

Why Deed Was Recorded.

Why Deed Was Recorded.

"Mr. Schettler said it was not necesary; that the deed was all right, and I took his word for it. Then I was cramped for room, wanted to build an addition, and so I asked a friend what I should do. He told me I could berrow some money if my deed was recorded and there was nothing owing on the property. I told him the deed wasn't recorded, and he said I couldn't borrow any money on the property unless the deed was recorded, and I had it done. That I friend was Dr. Theodore Meyor."

No Talk With Other Wives.

"Did you ever talk with the other wives about the matter?" asked Mr. Stewart.
"No. I never bothered them about anything," said Mrs. Schettler, almost with an air of disdain.
"How have you supported yourself and your children?" maked the attorney.

Is Professional Nurse.

"When my children were little I did mending and darning, anything I could get, sold eggs and milk—did everything I could to make a living for them and me. Ten years ago, after the children had grown up a little, I took a course in nursing and have worked at that steadily since. My children have worked ever since they have been old enough to do enything, and they have helped me by giving me a dollar now and then. My three girls and my son are working how, two of my girls in a telephone office and one of them teaching music."

Has Saved Some Money.

Has Saved Some Money.

'Have you sayed any money?" asked "Have you sayed any money?" asked Mr. Stewart

"Yes, I've saved a dollar for my old age. I knew it would come sometime to me as it does to every one. My sister and I have a piece of property on the West Side. I don't know how much it is worth—we have it insured for $2000—but there is a mortgage of $2000 on it and there was so much red tape about the purchase price that it would take a good deal of figuring for me to tell you what it cost."

She Paid Taxes.

Scorchers to Be Arrested, Is Order

Teamsters and Wheelmen Must Comply With Ordinances of the City.

Carcless teamsters would do well to arry fee dollars' with them from now on, for the police are beginning to make arrests. It is a case of $10 fine for each party convicted under the driving ordinance, and, of course, the ball is set at the same figure. Patrolman Evans brought in one and Patrolman Mortis two yesterday, for improper use of the city's streets.

Arrests Are to Be Made.

For some time past the police department has kept mounted men on well frequented corners, warning drivers and wheelmen as to where they belong. The mability to tell the right from the left hand has resulted in frequent admonitious on the part of the officers. Now orders have gone out to arrest in each case of disobedience.

Reckless Cyclists, Too.

Not only driving on the wrong side of the street has caused annoyance. Reckless cyclists have in Sait Lake formed a habit of cutting corners at high speed. Messenger boys are as a rule the worst offenders. They have a habit of racing around corners at terrific speed, giving no warning save an eccasional whistle at the last moment. As a result heart failure threatens to become a frequent complaint in this city.

Two Avests Made

Two Arrests Made.

Main street patrolmen had numbers of hances to make arrests yesterday, but asked many by for the once, in the idea hat arrests in flagrant cases might warn arrests in flagrant cases might warn others of what will come to them if don't change their tactics. Nothing to Do With Schettler.

"Haven't you done any business with Mr. Schettler for twenty years?"
"No, sir, I have not. He has never enten a meal in my bouse in that time and I have had nothing to do with him."
"Then you haven't been on good terms with Mr. Schettler?"

Made Demand for Money.

Made Demand for Money.

"Well, if you had been a woman and was treated as I have been, I wonder if you would say you were on good terms with a man," answered Mrs. Schettler, in a tone that told more plainly than the words just how she felt toward her former husband. Before being excused from the witness stand, Mrs. Schettler said she had made demands upon Mr. Schettler many times for money, but had not received it. She also testified that she know absolutely nothing had never known anything about his financial affairs.

Last Witness of Day.

Mrs. Scheltler was the last witness of the day, in fact the court took a recess at 2 o'clock in order that Mrs. Schettler's attorney, E. V. Higgins, might be present when she was giving her testimony. She was on the stand about half an hour, and when she had finished her testimony. Attorney Stewart asked that the case be continued until June 5 at 10 o'clock, his request being granted.

Marning Session

Morning Session.

Mr. Schettler was not present when the hearing of the case was resumed yesterday morning. Several witnesses were examined, including R. R. Anderson, Percival O. Perkins, L. Moth Iverson and William Tibbey. Other witnesses are to be subpoensed when the case is called again, the attorneys for the creditors being busy the attorneys for the creditors being busy now looking into the property interests of Schettler, their request for a delay in the proceedings being caused by this fact.

Dated Acknowledgment Back.

Percival O. Perkins, J. L. May and L. Moth Iversen were subpoensed in regard to a lease recorded in the County Recorder's office on May 5, last. The papers recorded granted a life lease to John and Mary Morgan to the premises where they now make their home. B. H. Schettler being the other party to the lease. The paper was written by B. H. Schettler, dated October 4, 1900, and bore the acknowledgment of L. Moth Iversen as a notary public. The wording of the lease and the signature of B. H. Schettler were written in ink that showed age, while the signature of Mr. Iversen was in very fresh-looking ink. When put upon the stand, Mr. Iversen testified that he had made the acknowledgment of the paper but two or three weeks ago, but dated it back, Mr. Schettler having convinced him that on the day he had written the lease he had shown it to Mr. Iversen, who had falled to put his acknowledgment upon the paper at the time. Mr. Iversen testified that some times parties write up papers in his presence merely asking him to witness them, and later call upon him for an acknowledgment. This is what he thought he did, he said, in the case of the lease in question.

No Expert Necessary. Percival O. Perkins, J. L. May and L.

No Expert Necessary.

Inasmuch as Mr. Iversen admitted what attorneys for the creditors were anxious to learn, it was not necessary to put an expert on the stand to testify in regard to the age of the writing in the lease, so J. They were familiar with the books of the ward and of the tithing office, and testified that since 1892, B. H. Schettler had paid in the neighborhood of $2500 in tithing. This would amount to something less than $200 a year. It will be recalled that in his testimony Mr. Schettler said he had not been as faithful in the paying of his tithes as he might have been, and the books of the church would seem to bear out this statement.

Anderson Is Questioned.

R. R. Anderson was questioned chiefly about money which he paid to Tillie Sutherland and Mrs. Caroline Thompson after he was appointed receiver. He assumed his usual attitude of being unable to recall the transactions, but finally admitted that he acted as a friend of the family and gave the women money which was given to him by Ernest Schettler. Mr. Anderson had with him some newspaper clippings which he referred to several times, in order, seemingly, to refresh his memory as to just what were the facts in the case.

Lots in Block Two.

Lots in Block Two.

William Tibbey was the last witness of the morning. He was questioned concerning some lots in block 2. White's subdivision, on which he held a mortgage from E. H. Schettler. He testified that Mr. Schettler had paid the mortgage himself, telling Mr. Tibbey that he intended transferring the lot to Ernest Schettler, and the property now appears in the name of Ernest Schettler. Attorneys for the creditors believe this is a piece of property which oclongs to Mr. Schettler, and that he has transferred it to his son Ernest merely temporarily. Ernest merely temporarily.

Estate Association Gives Luncheon to Solid Eight.

Entertains Councilmen Whose Firm Stand Means a New Era in Salt Lake City.

"A Bumper to Salt Lake, the City of Opportunities," proposed Thomas Homer president of the Sait Lake Real Estate association, who presided over the lunchcon given by the association at the Commercial club yesterday in honor of the eight members of the City Council who have stood up for the rights of the people against the grasping demands of the Utah Light and Rallway company. And the toast was drunk right heartly

The Solid Eight.

Seven of the Councilmen were present the eighth being necessarily absent on account of a business engagement that could not be postponed. The absent member, however, pledged himself to stand with the other seven for progress and against encroachments of monopolistic The "solid eight" were therefore pledged to the sentiment of the toast, and in words that admit of no mistaking they gave assurance that as far as lay in their power they would make this in reality a city of opportunities, free from the blighting grasp of one-man power.

Appreciation of Citizens.

The luncheon to the Councilmen was the outgrowth of a desire to show the full appreciation of the Real Estate association and of public-spirited citizens generally of the stand taken by the eight members of the Council against the franchise extension demanded by the Utah Light and Railway company.

Union and Utah.

The tables were spread in the form of an U indicating Union and Utah. At the head of the table sat Thomas Homer, and on either side of him were Councilmen Black. Hartenstein, Martin Dean, Hobday, Neuhausen and A. J. Davis. Councilman Wood was the only absentee of the "solid eight." Ranged along the prongs of the "I" were members of the Real Estate association, to the number of about forty.

Homer's Stirving Address.

Homer's Stirring Address.

Homer's Stirring Address.

President Homer made a stirring and earnest talk, comparing the street railway system of Los Angeles, which most of those present had just visited, with the Sait Lake system. He congratulated the courageous members of the Council on the stand they had taken and assured them that 99 per cent. of the people of Sait Lake were with them. He reviewed the fight that had been made by the Real Estate association at the inception of the franchise question, which had continued up to the present time and would continue until the people's rights were respected.

Learned Valuable Lesson.

Elmer Durling next spoke in the same vein, saying that those who had visited Los Angeles had learned valuable lessons that would be applied to the betterment of Salt Lake.

Black Speaks Encouragingly

Councilman Black spoke encouragingly of the situation in the City Council, and said that he believed right would prevail. He had not gone to Los Angeles with the others, but he knew the lesson and would be found, as he always had been, fighting against the grasping greed of the light trust.

Hobday Firm as Rock.

Councilman Hobday, who has been active all along against the franchise grab, said it was not necessary to say where he stood, and he would be found there 'until the last day in the morning." He explained that he had just been talking over the telephone to his colleague, Councilman Wood, who was detained by pressing business engagements that could not be recalled.

Mr. Hobday assured his hearers, however, that Mr. Wood would be found in the right place when the voling takes place. He had talked with Mr. Wood on Saturday and that gentleman had said it would not be possible for him to attend the luncheon, but he had said: "I will be with you in the Council and do whatever the others do." This statement brought a round of applause that continued for some time.

Dean Against Franchise Wood in Right Place.

Dean Against Franchise.

Councilman Dean also received an ova-tion. He simply said: "In the Council I am called a silent member, but my vote counts one just the same. That one vote will be against the franchise grab." Hartenstein's View.

Councilman Hartenstein made a strong and sensible speech, in which he urged the importance of competition and bespoke the ald and assistance of the Réal Estate association in securing an electric light franchise for Samuel Newhouse. For Another Street Railway.

For Another Street Railway.

He also said that the streets of Salt Lake are wide enough to accommodate two more street railway tracks, and he thought the people of the city ought to bend their energies toward securing competition in this line also. He said the franchise grab of the Utah Light and Railway company was already beaten. The citizens should unite to reap the acvantage and place Salt Lake on a still firmer basis of progress and prosperity. Neuhausen Strikes From Shoulder.

Neuhausen Strikes from Shoulder.
Councilman Neuhausen epoke briefly, but pointedly, saying Sait Lake is beginning to take on new life. An indication of this was in the construction of better buildings. He said he hoped and believed the eight members, constituting a majority of the Council, would stand together for progress and against the stumbling block that was attempted to be put in the way by the light and railway trust.

Reviewed Statement of Trust.

Alex. A. Robertson spoke at some length, reviewing the annual statement of the Utah Light and Railway company, printed last Saturday in The Tribune. He pointed out that that company collected from people of Salt Lake last year, for the public utilities it controls, a sum greater than the combined State, county and city taxes. It had paid to the State, city and county only $40,000 in taxes. What it is offering for the exclusive privileges it is now seeking is a water-right which, he asserted, was absolutely unnecessary to the permanent extension of the city's water system.

DISAPPEARS

Well-Known Salt Laker Makes Discovery.

Home After Six Weeks Pleasure Trip, His Bookkeeper Is Gone.

About Fifteen Hundred Dollars Has Likewise Vanished, and Investigation Not Yet Concluded.

Home from a six-weeks' pleasure trip and at his desk only one day, Joseph Dederlehs discovered that his trusted sookkeeper, John McKenna, had disappeared, and that $1500 and probably more had vanished. The whereabouts of Mc-Kenna is unknown at the present time Fourteen days ago he left for Twin Falls and has not been heard of since. Dederichs has not yet taken any steps for redress and will await further re-sults before acting.

How Money Was Obtained

Six weeks ago, when Mr. Dederichs Six weeks ago, when Mr. Dederichs left for the coast, he made arrangements for his daughter to sign all checks. With this exception all the business of the company was left in the hands of Mr. McKenna, a supposedly trusted man, who had proven his worth to Mr. Dederichs's satisfaction by two and a hair years of faithful work. While on his trip Mr. Dederichs wired McKenna and told him to go to Twin Falls and examine the company's books at that place. About fourteen days ago Mr. McKenna left, supposedly for Twin Falls, but since has not been heard of or located.

Traced Checks to Bank.

While looking over his accounts late yesterday afternoon Mr. Dederichs discovered that during the first month of his absence about $1500 had disappeared. He immediately traced the matter to the bank and discovered a number of checks, which he says are forged. Mr. Dederichs will make a complete and thorough investigation of his books today to discover to just what extent he is out.

Takes Loss Philosophically.

When seen last evening Mr. Dederichs was decidedly opposed to discussing the matter, and although disappointed at the actions of McKenna, seemed desirons of still shielding the man who proved false to him. "I have just been beat. He is one ahead of me," was practically all that Mr. Dederichs had to say at first, but later he admitted the story as told above.

McKenna a Pennsylvanian.

Mr. McKenna came to this city from Pennsylvania several years ago, and for nearly a year and a half was employed as instructor of mathematics at All Hailows college. His release from this institution was thoroughly honorable, and it was with the highest recommendations that he entered the employ of Mr. Dederichs some two and one-half, years ago.
